HISTORY

To appreciate how the Kavalani's came to this point, it is interesting to look at the family's long association and shared history with the Kingdom Of Bahrain.

In 1850 an enterprising man, Mr. Kavalmal Kavalani came to Bahrain from India and traded in pearls. In the following decades, his descendents Mr. Vasumal Kavalmal and Mr. Purshotamdas Vasumal traded in textiles and foodstuff respectively, followed by Mr. Narsingdas Purshotamdas who dealt in dates and tea.

With the beginnings of the Oil Boom in the 1950's, Mr. Tolaram Narsingdas and Mr. Chandrasen Narsingdas, the great-grandsons of the first Mr. Kavalani, started dealing in automobile spares. In the 1960's the focus then shifted to industrial consumables, hardware and building materials reflecting Bahrain's converging focus on petroleum, industrial diversification, infrastructure and marine services.

SHOWROOM INFORMATION

The new showroom comprises an area of 13,000 sq. feet and is developed on the unique concept of 'a store within a store'.

Individual retail spaces have been allocated to different categories of products through brand wise segmentation. This fosters a customer friendly environment, whereby customers can easily identify their needs.

The spacious showroom layout also enables customers to examine, test and select the products first hand. With the display of machinery and equipment, customers can better understand the mechanics and concepts behind these with the help of our dedicated customer support sales staff.

This 130,000 sq. feet facility shall also host the new Kavalani corporate head office, which shall monitor all the regional activities of the company. Keeping in line with corporate standards, different offices have been setup for Sales, Marketing, Accounting, Purchasing, Logistics, Warehousing, IT and HR.

The state-of-the-art facilities will make it possible to carry out enhanced training programs to better equip the staff to offer efficient and innovative solutions to clients.
